Items also included coffee urns, tables, chairs and laminate flooring. # LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

Until the 2015 election, Canada had great relations with the rest of the world. Now, well, not so good. Canada is the "Village Idiot" of the world. We now have very bad relations with the 4 major nations, the US, China, Russia and India. We also have diminished relations with Brazil, Saudi Arabia, Japan and Australia. Canada doesn't have anymore allies because the "Canadian Idiot", instead of promoting our resources and our great country, would rather preach about gender equality, feminism, fancy socks and wether men should pee sitting down or standing up. The US treats him like an annoying kid, China stopped buying our grain, pork, beef, etc. The Russian President thinks he's a moron and so does India. Canada is in serious trouble and the sooner we accept that he isn't on Canada's side, everything he does makes sense.

Ray Barrette, Winfield

HEALTH MATTERS

BY DR. JOHN F. HUNTER D.C.

THORSBY FAMILY CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC

Chiropractors have a role to play in their patient's general well being and self care. One way that chiropractors do this is through maintenance care. Most people associate a visit to the chiropractor with injuries like whiplash, thrown backs and other kinds of pain that require immediate treatment. That is only one part of a much bigger picture.

What is maintenance care

The goal of maintenance care is to maintain optimal function and movement, keep your body balanced and to prevent future injuries.

When you go to your chiropractor for maintenance care, they will assess your posture, movement and general musculoskeletal health. This kind of care is beneficial for everyone, not just people who are physically active.

When we examine younger patients, we can monitor how their bones are developing and ensure their movement patterns are correct and normal. When we see senior patients, we often work to keep our patients mobile and help prevent future falls and injuries.

Maintenance care goes hand in hand with self care

The end goal of maintenance care and self care is the same: to ensure you are healthy. Maintenance care focuses your physical well being, which is one part of the bigger picture of your health.

Good self care and health is a balance between looking after your physical health, as well as your emotional health and mental health.

It isn't hard to incorporate self care into your day. Maintenance care, getting restful sleep and eating well are just a few ways to keep you at your best.

Maintenance care extends beyond the chiropractic clinic

A maintenance and injury prevention-style treatment plan is unique to each patient, just like self care. After an assessment, chiropractors work with their patients to set health goals and make recommendations on treatments. Often, patients are able to fulfill these recommendations independently.

It's common for chiropractors to teach their patients stretches and simple exercises to build into their lives. These activities can help build strength, loosen stiff muscles and joints, improve your quality of movement and help break unhealthy movement habits we get into during our daily life.

Maintenance care does not mean you will need to visit your chiropractor forever

Maintenance care can include teaching patients stretches, helping to monitor existing physical conditions, nutritional counselling and providing advice to empower patients.

A good chiropractor wants to give you the tools to become self-sufficient and in control over your aches and pains, not have you rely on his or her services for the rest of your life.

How do I know if chiropractic is a good choice for me?

It's important to keep in mind that self care requires different tools to successfully support your health. Chiropractic is a great way to keep your body flexible and relieve pain, and it fits well with other kinds of self care activities.

The best way to determine whether chiropractic care is for you is by having a conversation with a chiropractor. Depending on your needs, your chiropractor may work with another health care professional, or refer you for a different kind of treatment.

If it hurts, see a chiropractor.

Maintenance care can help prevent pain and keep your joints functioning to the best of their ability but injuries can still happen. If your pain is persistent, seek advice from a chiropractor.

Chiropractors are highly educated and specially trained musculoskeletal experts. Your chiropractor can treat aches and pains, as well as build customized stretching routines and whole-body wellness strategies in conjunction with your chiropractic treatment.

Covenant Corner

from Pastor Jeff Gooderham

Back in 1830 George Wilson was convicted of robbing the U.S. Mail and was sentenced to be hanged. President Andrew Jackson issued a pardon for Wilson, but he refused to accept it. The matter went to Chief Justice Marshall, who concluded that Wilson would have to be executed. "A pardon is a slip of paper," wrote Marshall, "the value of which is determined by the acceptance of the person to be pardoned. If it is refused, it is no pardon. George Wilson must be hanged." For some, the pardon comes too late. For others, the pardon is not accepted.

God has offered to each of us a pardon from our sin. The Bible tells us that the wages of sin is death, BUT the gift of God is eternal life. That gift is found in repentance from our sin and faith in the saving grace of Jesus Christ. Some will accept the pardon, some will refuse it. But why?

MLA REPORT

from The Office of MLA Mark Smith,
Member of the Legislative Assembly
for Drayton Valley - Devon

In the spring election the people of Alberta had a choice to make. Instead of re-electing an NDP government that had increased our debt from $13 Billion to $60 billion they elected a United Conservative government that campaigned on balancing the budget over the next 4 years and working towards eliminating the debt after that.

In May of 2019 the new Alberta government appointed the Mackinnon Panel who's Chair, Janice Mackinnon, was a former Minister of Finance from the NDP government in Saskatchewan that had to tackle an even greater economic crisis in Saskatchewan during the 1990's.

The Mackinnon Panel was appointed to ... "conduct a "deep dive" into Alberta's fiscal situation, recommend a path to balance, and propose a realistic plan to start paying down the debt."

The Mackinnon Panel reviewed the Alberta government's finances including:

- Government's fiscal outlook
- Ministry expenditure trends and cost drivers.
- Develop a new fiscal framework that requires future balanced budgets by 2022/23 without raising taxes and a plan to retire the accumulated debt.

The Mackinnon Panel reported back to the Alberta Government on August 15, 2019 and their report was then studied by the government and recently released to the general public. The report's conclusions and recommendations are important and they are not necessarily going to be easy to pursue. Here are some of the conclusions of the Mackinnon Report:

"Alberta's debt has increased rapidly in the last four years, $13 billion to $60 billion, and without a change in course will exceed $100 billion in just four years."

"Growing deficits and debt mean more and more tax dollars are spent on interest rather than on programs ... the payments to service the debt in 2022/23 could pay for more than 30,000 teachers or 35,000 long-term care beds."

"(Alberta) is spending more per capita than the three other large provinces on most of its programs and services but often getting poorer results. Raising taxes to find more money for the current level of programs and services is not the answer."

"In some key areas, in spite of the higher levels of funding, the results achieved are no better and, in some cases, worse than in other provinces."

Alberta's spending would be $10.4 Billion less every year if we matched the average spending of Canada's three largest provinces – Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia. Alberta would have a $3.7 billion surplus instead of a $6.7 billion deficit.

To balance the Alberta budget in four years, operating expense will need to drop by at least $600 million by 2022-23, relative to 2018-19 actuals, and $1.1 billion relative to the 2018-19 budget.

The Mackinnon Report clearly shows that increasing taxes to address our debt and deficits is not the answer. Alberta does not primarily have a revenue problem – rather, as the Mackinnon Report concludes Alberta has a spending and program efficiency problem. We need to ensure that the tax dollars we do collect and the government services we do provide are being used and delivered at least as efficiently as in Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia.

As we move forward into the fall budget the government is going to be reviewing and implementing many of the recommendations of the Mackinnon report. This will not be easy, but it is necessary, if we want to ensure that the people of Alberta continue to be able to have a government that has the financial capacity to deliver the services that all Albertans want and deserve.
