Warm Your Tummy With Online Soup Making Workshop

From Gayle Sacuta,
Thorsby Municipal Library

Please tune into Thorsby Library's YouTube feed on Friday, Feb 26 at 12:00 noon to find us going live with our "Make and Do: Soup," program.

While the Library is still closed to in-person traffic, you can pick up your Make and Do Soup kit (while quantities last) by curbside service.

On program day, tune in to watch us interview Meredith from the Leduc and District Food Bank, hear about the work that goes on, learn about pulses, and demo soup making.

Phone the library at 780-789-3808 for further information and pick up your kit on Tuesdays or Fridays.

Thank you to the Leduc and District Food Bank for partnering and helping us learn more about our Thorsby and Area community.

Best wishes, Gayle

Five Little Bears

Written by Ruth Harrison

Somewhere in the Western Forests of Alberta, Mother Bear slowly woke up after her long winter nap. Nuzzling her two little babies, she cuddled and fed them so they would grow strong for their journey into the bright world outside.

Days turned into weeks, Mother Bear continued to feed and to wander in search of the new green leaves and roots of early spring growth. She heard loud baging which threatened her, so she hid deep in the dense undergrowth protecting her young, who were always wanting to run and play.

The terrible banging finally stopped! One day while feeding she heard whimpering in the bush nearby. Slowly she checked around, when she saw four sad little eyes peering at her fearfully, pleading to be helped.

Oh well, two more wouldn't matter, so the family of four with Mother Bear moved on, enjoying the warm weather.

One morning Mother Bear looked around checking on her brood when she noticed something different. She did not have four youngsters anymore, she had five!

"I wonder where he came from? Oh well, one more won't matter." she thought as she wandered on.

The cubs grew strong, feeding on berries and greens. As summer turned into fall, Mother Bear took her family far into the hills, into the Shining Mountains where she found a wonderful cave to snuggle down with the five cubs, for the long cold winter.

Next spring Mother Bear left the cave with all five young bears to continue life in the meadows nearby. She did not have a new baby with her that spring. I guess she decided five adolescents were enough to care for until they would leave to find their own homes come fall. Meanwhile they found a safe haven in the many valleys in the beautiful mountains.

Author's Note:

My "storytelling" version of the five cubs is based on fact, passed on by a biologist who monitored this bear family closely and observed how well they managed and the final outcome until they were on their own. It truly makes one appreciate the dedication of motherly, caring animal behavior.
