Home-O-Gram Your Radio Guide When an Artifact Helps Tells a Story

From Allan Goddard

Often an artifact comes to the museum that helps tell more of a story about the community. A recent artifact which came to the museum is called a Home-O-Gram, and was published by Home-O-Gram Services Ltd. of Edmonton. It was a daily radio programming schedule for two of the larger radio stations in Edmonton at the time, CJCA and CFRN. Other radio station's call letters and radio frequency, from Alberta and the northwest United States, are also included. The Home O Gram was used to promote a community and advertise local businesses, as well as Edmonton businesses.

While there is no date to indicate when the Home O Gram was published, it does reveal that it is the first iteration and that others would follow at six-month intervals. We can conclude that it predates Television, as it focuses on the daily radio programs. Further research by the Museum into the Breton businesses that advertised in the Home O Gram has led us to narrow the date of the publication to around 1947 to 1950.

So, what does this artifact tells us about Breton in the late 1940s? Although only six businesses have an ad in the fold out, we learned that there were agents for three machinery companies in Breton. Fred Scott, who was a local blacksmith and welder, sold John Deere equipment, North End Hardware, owned by C.O. Johnson, sold Massey-Harris machinery, and R. (Bob) Samardzic was an agent for International Harvester and also an Esso/Imperial fuel dealer.

The Breton Cash Store, owned by Hanson Bros. & Co. and managed by Nick Raczuk, carried hardware in addition to groceries, dry goods, and clothing. It is interesting to note that this business had a telephone. You know you live in a small town when... your telephone number is 3. To connect with the Breton Cash Store required you go through the local switch board operator, Mrs. Eleanor Reid. The other merchant who advertised in the Home O Gram who has a telephone is Fred Scott at the Blacksmith Shop and his phone number was 6.

General merchant Tim Sexton also sold groceries, dry goods, and carried Ogilvies flour along with Shur-Gain Feeds. Sexton's store was located at the west end of Main Street where Family Foods is today. It is interesting to note that since the founding of Breton there has always been a grocery store at the same location.

Walter Baynes, a business man in Breton, was a Notary Public as well as an insurance salesman and operating his hardware store located where the Provincial Court House is today.

The Home-O-Gram also gives us an insight to what programs the Breton community might have listened to on their radios. In addition to the news, there was a daily grain and livestock report. As this was before television, there was a wide variety of radio shows that catered to all age groups. Music programs included listening to the Big Band sound of Duke Ellington and Tommy Dorsey. For country fans there was Sons of the Pioneers and the Barn Dance. Variety shows included: Wayne and Shuster, the Happy Gang, and the Bob Hope Show. On Saturday night, CJCA would broadcast a hockey game, and Sunday morning saw a variety of religious programming.

Each night at 11PM the radios stations signed off for the day, until 7 AM the next morning. There has been a big change from then until present day, where we are bombarded with an almost endless stream of programs to choose from at all hours of the day ... and still nothing worth watching.

Preacher's Point

from Pastor Jeff Gooderham

Once, when a stubborn disputer seemed unconvinced, Lincoln said, "Well, let's see how many legs has a cow?"

"Four, of course," came the reply disgustedly.

"That's right," agreed Lincoln. "Now suppose you call the cow's tail a leg; how many legs would the cow have?"

"Why, five, of course," was the confident reply.

"Now, that's where you're wrong," said Lincoln. "Calling a cow's tail a leg doesn't make it a leg." Lincoln makes a great observation. Truth is not, nor has it ever been subjective. It is, and always will be definitive. But where then, can we go to find truth? Does a culture that is always changing and shifting offer truth? Do you or I, with our own personal views, interpretations and agendas, offer truth? Can we look to politicians or world leaders for truth?

The Bible says in 1st Peter 1:24, "That all men are like grass, and all their glory like the flowers of the field, the grass withers and the flowers fall, but the Word of the Lord stands forever."

Consider the Word of God. It is eternal. It is beyond the limits of time and human corruption. It stands alone. Jesus said; "I am the way, the truth, and the life." He is the Word of God and

He alone is our source of truth. If you are struggling to find truth in our world today, I encourage you to look to the only source of truth, the unchanging, incorruptible, Word of God.
