Back to School Anxiety - Kids may be stressing about big changes in the fall.

Children heading back to the classroom this fall may face unusual challenges. One of them is anxiety about being separated from their families. In some cases kids may resist going back to school because the quarantine was actually a lot easier for them than going to school — kids with a lot of social anxiety, or who were bullied, or kids with learning disorders who had an easier time at home where they could do things at their own pace.

We've put together a brief list of pointers for families on helping ease children into the "new normal" and support them in coping with anxieties that we predict will be more intense and prevalent this fall.

1. Validate their feelings

It's worrisome when kids are clingy or fearful about separating from you, but it's important for parents to stay calm and stay positive. If a child is struggling, or they say they miss you, that's okay. You want to say, "I miss you too, and I'm so proud of you for going to school."

2. Set the tone

If you lead with your own anxiety, you're only going to fuel anxiety. Try not to ask leading questions ("Are you nervous about going back to school?"), which can indicate to your child that there really is something to worry about. If children have questions you can't answer, you can say, "That's a really good question. I am not sure, but I can find out the answer to that question."

3. Help them think positive

One way to help kids focus on positive things is to try to get them to talk about the good things about school. What are they looking forward to? What did they enjoy most in the past? For younger kids with separation issues, transitional objects can help them feel comfortable. A transitional object can be anything that helps your child feel connected to you when you're apart — a button, a handkerchief, a stone you found together.

4. Emphasize safety measures

We can't promise our kids that we won't get sick, but we can express confidence in public health efforts like vaccination and in the schools who have done months of planning to minimize risk and keep everyone safe. Older children can understand the concept of acceptable risk — that sometimes we have to take small risks to do important things.

5. Practice separating

For children who are anxious about being apart, our experts suggest practicing separation, starting in small ways and building tolerance for more and more independence. This can be as simple as children playing in their room by themselves or staying with another caregiver while Mom or Dad goes out. These steps build currency towards the big separation.

6. Have a routine

Making sure that your child has a predictable routine leading up to school can help kids, especially younger ones, feel more secure. And if your routine and practicing separation still don't prevent a child clinging to you at drop-off, it helps to have coordinated a plan with the teacher, so you know that when the teacher steps up to engage your child, and your child is even tentatively engaged, it's the cue for you to go. Many kids feel better as soon as they get into the swing of the school day, so drawing out your goodbyes usually doesn't help.

7. Encourage flexibility

We don't know how "normal" most kids' schools will be in the fall, and plans may be changing up to the last minute. That includes the possibility that children who start school in person may be expected to switch back to remote learning, at least for some periods of time. So it's helpful for kids to know that you're prepared for changes that may occur. Let your child know that the whole family is going to have to be flexible.

8. When should you get help?

Kids who have trouble separating often just need time, and support from parents and teachers, to adjust. But if your child is having severe meltdowns at drop-off time for more than two or three weeks, and is unable to recover or to even stay at school, for more than three or four weeks, then seeking help can make a big difference. Similarly, if your child's other school-related worries are causing repeated headaches and stomachaches, constant visits to the school nurse, or refusal to go to school, they may need some help from a mental health professional to deal with fears in a healthy way.

Tools for School – The beginning of a new school year is only a couple of days away. If you would like to donate new school supplies you can see the items that the teachers have asked for each of their grades on their websites at – Breton Elementary website at www.bretonel.wrsd.ca or for the High school students at www.bretonhs.wrsd.ca. Items can be dropped off at the Village of Breton Office.

Housing Rental Information – Breton FCSS will be collecting information for any rental properties in the area. If you would like to have your property listed, please stop by the Village of Breton Office to complete the form. It can also be found on the Village website at www.breton.ca.

The collected information will be available as a list at our office or also can be downloaded from the Village of Breton website. The landlord gives consent for us to distribute this information. Any further communication will be between the landlord and the potential renter.

Save the Date – Thursday September 22 – Celebrating Breton – This evening will bring our community together to see all of the great business, non-profit and recreation opportunities. We invite any groups, home business or store front businesses to join us. There is no fee to participate, registration forms available from the Village office. Only one vendor from a company business will be accepted) i.e., Thirty-One Bags, Tupperware, Pampered Chef etc. Please contact us for more information or email fcss@breton.ca for a registration package.

Fundraising Opportunity. – We are looking for a community group to host 4 – 6 Community Movie Nights between October 2022 and May 2023. All cost for the evening including hall rental, advertising and movie license paid by Breton FCSS. An honorarium will be paid to the group. ## Richard William Funnell

As a follow up, from my previous article about the Funnell School District, this article will explore what we have discovered about Richard William Funnell, the individual for whom the School District and area was named after.

In 2012 the Funnell Community Centre was preparing to celebrate the centennial of the Funnell School. The Breton Museum started to research the life of Richard Funnell. It would seem that one of the first individuals to settle in the area would have information about them recorded. What we soon found out, there wasn't a lot of information about him. There were two short passages about him, one in a book called "From Frontier Days in Leduc and District" 1891-1956, where Breton resident Walter Baynes had written an article about the early history of the area. In it he mentions... "Richard Funnell who, with another man, drove a team of oxen from Millet". The other mention of Richard Funnell was by Lloyd Ellis in the "Ladder of Time" where he wrote four short sentences. Lloyd gave the land location of Funnell's homestead, that he lived in a log house with a sod roof, had a son who was killed in World War Two, and that his wife had returned to England, after her son's death, where she lived the rest of her life. Well it was a start, so the hunt was on to find more details.

The museum was fortunate that Lloyd Ellis was able to provide some additional information in 2012: he knew Richard had passed away in the 1930's, at his home, and was laid to rest in the Breton Cemetery. Next stop the Village Office to check the cemetery records, they indicated he had died in October 1933. A visit to the Breton Cemetery found a simple headstone with the dates 1866-1933. Donald Jackson was also able to provide a few additional details about Richard. One of the more gruesome details he conveyed to the museum in a 2012 telephone conversation was when Richard passed away in October 1933, his body was stored in an old granary until the time of his burial. Remember it was the Depression years and there were no local funeral service providers.

His homesteaded records brought more details to light. From it we learned that he had filed on the NE 22-48-4 W5 in 1907 and that he was an American. As an American he had to become a Canadian citizen before he could obtain title to his homestead. By June 1911, at age 46, Richard had been naturalized as a Canadian citizen and had performed the necessary requirements to apply for title to his homestead. In his declaration for title, he had fifteen acres cleared, a 14X20 dwelling of logs, a log stable, a dug well 47 feet deep and he owned 2 oxen. When not residing on his homestead Richard worked as a teamster at a nearby logging camp. Richard was single at the time and would remain so for another ten years.

As far as the museum is aware no known photographs of Richard Funnell exist. Sad when you consider: a rural community, School / Community Centre, Telephone Mutual and the Funnell Mother's Club all carried his name.

But what about his wife and son? We will tell that story next time.

HIGHLIGHTS

Regular Council Meeting

Breton Recreation Cost-sharing

Council authorized Administration to enter into a recreation cost-sharing agreement between the Village of Breton and Brazeau County for a period of three years, starting January 1, 2021 and ending December 31, 2023.

Administration has been working on the attached new recreation cost-sharing agreement with the Village of Breton. The undertaking was prompted by the completion of the new community centre in Breton as well as the completion of the Intermunicipal Collaboration Framework.

The new agreement has been approved by Breton Council and maintains the intention of the previous agreement of 70% operating funding excluding, staffing costs. The new agreement also brings it in line with other recreation cost-sharing agreements and is presented as a three year agreement with a commencement date of January 1, 2021. The County's cost share was $46,668 in 2021.

Alternative Energy Business Plan

Chris Chukwunta, John Vrolijk, and Denis Wiart of IRES/ONEC/BREEZE presented their business plan to put solar panels and a compressed-air battery system in the County.

Council passed a motion to give support in search of funding and revenue generating ideas, letters of support for grant applications, and engagement with wire owners, and obtain necessary permitting required within the County.

Support for Martial Arts Tournament

Council approved an event grant of $1,000 to SBG Drayton Valley for the Straight Blast Grappling Jiu Jitsu Tournament on September 24-25, 2022, subject to the receipt of proof of insurance for the event. SBG's goal is to bring competitors to the region as well as raise awareness and tourism in a fun and safe environment.

A previous competition resulted in approximately 450 people from out of the region attending and extending their stay to enjoy the surroundings. The hope is that the two-day tournament will double the attendees and include incorporating a market into the event.

Support for Violet Grove Community Club

Council directed Administration to supply and install two mounted in-ground picnic tables for the Violet Grove playground with an estimated cost of $5,800.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor

The County of Brazeau may have a big-time winner without even having to buy a ticket.

The County has already spent mega bucks on some of the upfront costs to the road project concerning Township Road 474 between RR 52 and 53.

This project, in this writer's opinion, will cost ratepayers upwards of $4 million by the time the culverts, bridges, landfill (to a depth of 45 feet) plus expropriation are done to make it usable—all for the benefit of one family. Just to show the problems with carrying out this one-family benefit, Council may consider using a helicopter to do a few bore holes in the prep work. The estimated cost of this alone would be about $140,000.

All for the benefit of one family—don't take my word for it—go and check it out for yourself.

Why this project is being considered is a mystery, as all affected parties already have access to all their holdings. In my view (and that of others), there is absolutely no NEED for this road!

That $4 million would go a long way to replacing funds from the machinery reserve, which, at my last view, holds about $700,000, which would replace only one grader—we have 8 of them.

If you feel this expenditure is proper, do nothing; and Council will be happy to continue to benefit the few at the expense of the rest of us.

Lynn Oberle
Brazeau County

CANCER SURGERIES EXCEEDING PRE-PANDEMIC LEVELS

Cancer surgeries in Alberta are now at nearly 115 per cent of pre-pandemic volumes, with an increased number completed within clinically recommended time.

About 70 per cent of cancer patients received their surgeries within the clinically recommended time in the 2021-22 fiscal year, compared with about 60 per cent in 2018-19. Cancer surgery numbers went up to about 22,500 from 20,000, a 12.5 per cent increase over pre-COVID-19 levels.

"The number of people being diagnosed with cancer is increasing each year due to an aging population combined with population growth. Cancer treatment and care remains one of our highest priorities, and these procedures were prioritized throughout the pandemic to make sure that those who have the most urgent need go first." Dr. Lloyd Mack, medical lead for Cancer Surgery Alberta, Alberta Health Services

"I was booked in for surgery at the end of September, at the height of the pandemic, and I was worried about surgery cancellations. I started looking elsewhere just in case my surgery was cancelled, but the delays were happening across the country. My surgery was delayed by a week but I still got in at the end of September." Susan Ruddick, Alberta Health Services patient advisor who underwent cancer surgery in September 2021

As part of Alberta's Surgical Initiative, Alberta Health and Alberta Health Services (AHS) have been increasing surgical capacity in hospitals and the number of surgeries at chartered surgical facilities. Main operating room surgical suite hours have been increased at hospitals, which is steadily reducing the surgical wait-list. AHS is performing an additional 30,000 ophthalmology procedures and 6,000 orthopedic procedures this fiscal year through new contracts with chartered surgical facilities. This is in addition to providing quicker access to urology, orthopedic and ophthalmology surgeries by implementing a central access and intake model called the Alberta facilitated access to specialized treatment program.

Quick facts

The surgical wait-list currently sits at 6.7 per cent above pre-pandemic levels. The total surgical wait-list for adults is about 72,600, compared with about 68,000 in February 2020, before the pandemic.

Laurie's Laughs

I'm selling this glass door. Just needs to be assembled.

I was mugged by a thief last night on my way home.

Pointing a knife at me ... He asked me "your money or your life!"

I told him I am Married... so I have no money and no life...

We hugged and cried together.

It was a beautiful moment...
