

THE BRETON BOOSTER

CELEBRATING BLACK HISTORY MONTH

Sam & Neoma Hooks

Submitted by Allan Goddard

What would become the Village of Breton, started out on the homestead of Sam & Neoma Hooks. The Dominion Land Survey of the area had been completed in 1906, and within a couple years the land was opened up for individuals to file on homesteads. One of the first to file on a homestead in the area was William Allen, in 1909. Mr. Allen contacted other African Americans families in Oklahoma, which he knew, suggesting the area would be a suitable area to settle and start a community of their own. Over the next couple of years, a number of families settled in the area and called the community Keystone.

Sam and Neoma Hooks were married in Oklahoma in the early 1900's. In 1912 along with their four children Virgie, Ellis, Elmer and Victoria left Sharpes, Oklahoma, their destination Edmonton, Alberta. The family crossed the US Canadian border at North Portal, Saskatchewan with their farm animals and household effects. Also accompanying the family was Neoma's mother Mrs. S. Atkins. Mrs. Atkins would return to Oklahoma within a year, but that is a story for another time.

Encouraged by William Allen, Sam Hooks filed on a homestead at Keystone, (SE2 48-4-W5) on a quarter with a ravine running through it. The Hooks family would remain in Edmonton for the first years, where Sam found employment working on the building of the High-Level Bridge. In 1915 they were ready to move to their homestead. With their team of mules and wagon they started out for Keystone. The trip would take several grueling days, over very poor trails, to reach their homestead. A small cabin and garden plot had been constructed prior to their move; an addition would be added later. Although there were many challenges completing the required improvements to obtain title to their land, the Hooks family persevered. The family also grew with six more children born to Sam and Neoma after coming to Canada.

In the mid 1920's it was announced that the Lacombe North Western Railway would be extended through the area. On the Hooks' homestead, was an artisan spring with water that was suitable for the steam locomotives. Land was purchased from the Hooks for the railroad right away and the start of what became Breton along the western side of their property.

The new terminal of the railway was named for Douglas Breton, a provincial MLA in the United Farmers of Alberta, the Provincial government of the time. Douglas Breton, along with others, had lobbied for a railway through the area for a number of years.

A large eight room house was built over looking the ravine circa 1930. Sam and Neoma would raise their family on the homestead. In 1942 the farm was to Harry Huntley and they moved to Edmonton. Sam would pass away in October of 1943 and Neoma in August of 1965. The Hooks house would remain as a sentinel overlooking the Ravine until October 1974 when it was destroyed by fire. The Village of Breton, in 1994, named the Ravine which ran through the Hooks' homestead the "Sam Hooks Ravine".

60 BULLS ON OFFER

HIGHWAY 20 OPEN

*SPILL UPDATE 18 Feb 18, 2024

from the Village of Breton Facebook page

The moment has arrived that many have been waiting for...Highway 20 north and south bound is completely open! There are still some garbage bins at the intersection of 616 and 20 on the shoulder of the northbound lane so please keep an eye out for the flaggers at this intersection.

Thank you so very much to all of you that have been patient and kind through these last 3 and half weeks. It has been a long road (and even longer for those clean up crews!) and we all made it through.

To the ladies and gentlemen involved on all levels of the clean up, thank you on behalf of the residents of Breton and area. It was quite evident that no expense was spared to ensure our highways and the environment were appropriately looked after. Also thank you for all the support shown to our local businesses during these few weeks. There were many comments of gratitude from owners for the additional business.

AARON PRITCHETT ON THE EPAC STAGE IN DRAYTON ON FEB 11

Submitted by Russ Hickman

A touring coach and cargo trailer pulled up behind the Pembina Stage and unloaded a night of great country music entertainment. An established artist in his songwriting and performing prime, a pair of fun-loving co-conspirators and a lively band produced concert chemistry that Started with a Bang, Ended with a Boom and Burned Hot in Between! Aaron Pritchett's Liquored Up Tour was at The Pickup!

With the opening sonic bang, "Let's get Rowdy", Aaron Pritchett, Cory Marks, and Matt Lang gave clear notice of their plan for the evening! The tour's name sake song, "Liquored Up", confirmed it! Everybody was going to have a good time tonight! And they delivered! No opening act! The three amigos shared the stage, together, apart, and together again throughout the 27+ set list. Each kept the coals hot performing solo: Cory Marks with "Devil's Grin", "Blame it on the Double" and "Outlaws and Outsiders". Matt Lang with "All Night Longer", and Honky Tonk/Boot Scootin'" and "Water down the Whisky". Aaron poured on the gas with his hit, "New Frontier", "Worth a Shot", and his revealing, heart felt new single, "I Just want to Feel It". An all three artists acoustic set after the intermission and a stirring, evocative version of The Band's classic "The Weight" was a welcome break from the heat waves coming from the stage. But not for long! The songs burned hot until BOOM, a standing ovation brought everyone back on stage for riotous versions of Thin Lizzies' anthem to brotherly good times, "The Boys are Back in Town", Pritchett's "Hold My Beer" and in case anyone had forgotten the theme of the evening, a reprise of "Liquored Up"!

The more than satisfied audience hung about the merch table waiting for the Aaron, Cory and Matt who signed anything put in front of them. After a visit to the EPAC concession for a final toast it was to the hotel and Lloydminster tomorrow for this rolling good times, far from temperate, team!

SHED LIGHT ON HUMAN TRAFFICKING IN ALBERTA

Alberta Provincial Rural Crime Watch Association, February 17, 2024

Human trafficking is one of the fastest-growing crimes in Canada. Many of us mistakenly assume that human trafficking isn't something that happens in rural Alberta, but the truth is, from 2011-2021, the number of police reported cases of human trafficking rose from 2 to 38, and 93% of reported victims are Canadians who are trafficked domestically. A significant number of these cases go unreported. It is a crime that we, as a community, must become more aware of.

Human trafficking involves recruiting, transporting, harbouring, or receiving people through force, coercion, or deception to exploit them. They are sent through trafficking networks within Canada and internationally.

This crime can impact any member of our community, including women, men, trans and non-binary individuals, and children. While the majority of the victims of human trafficking are female, 1 in 4 are male.

In Alberta, there is a notable push to combat human trafficking through awareness campaigns and the collaboration of the government, non-profit agencies, and First Nations.

By understanding human trafficking, we can prevent any more of our neighbours from being victims of this horrible crime.

Understanding Human Trafficking

Human trafficking is a global problem, including in Alberta, that takes many forms, including sexual exploitation, sex trafficking, forced labour, slavery, and forced marriage.

Trafficking can occur in industries such as agriculture, construction, manufacturing, and domestic work. Victims often have to work long hours for little or no pay as they or their families are threatened.

By educating the public and those in positions of authority, we can all work together to combat human trafficking and support its victims. Through the provided knowledge, we can recognize the signs of trafficking, protect survivors, and hold traffickers accountable.

Types of Human Trafficking

Sex Trafficking

There are different types of sex trafficking, including sexual exploitation and forced marriage. Sexual exploitation involves manipulating someone into engaging in commercial sex acts, while forced marriage involves the exploitation of individuals through marriage without their consent.

Often, victims of sex trafficking are forced to:

- provide sexual services

- work in massage parlours
- work in escort agencies or the adult entertainment industry

Labour Trafficking

Victims of labour trafficking are forced into providing drastically low or unpaid labour in various sectors, often hidden behind legitimate industries. They are caught in this situation through force, fraud, or coercion.

This can also include domestic servitude, where they are made to work as housekeepers or childcare providers with little to no contact with the outside world.

Organ trafficking is another concern where individuals are forced to give up their organs and other parts of their body.

Recruitment Methods Employed by Traffickers

Human traffickers are expert manipulators who exploit the vulnerabilities of their victims through a variety of recruitment tactics, in particular, grooming.

Grooming tactics are manipulative strategies employed by traffickers to establish trust, control, and dependency over their victims. These tactics are a gradual process. Understanding grooming tactics is crucial for recognizing potential red flags and preventing human trafficking. Here's a closer look at some common grooming tactics:

1. Building trust and friendship
2. Creating dependency through financial assistance or isolation
3. Exploiting victim's vulnerabilities
4. Offering false promises and future plans
5. Introducing substances and creating dependencies
6. Coercion and threats
7. Normalizing exploitative behaviours

False job offers are another common ploy used to lure in victims. Traffickers may pose as employers, offering promising positions with attractive benefits. These deceptive job offers often target those who are new to the country, struggling with unemployment or seeking a better life, making them susceptible to traffickers' tactics.

Exploiting debts are also used by traffickers. The victims are forced into labour to repay a debt they couldn't repay otherwise.

Human Trafficking in Alberta

Like any other part of the world, there are difficulties addressing human trafficking and assisting vulnerable communities specific to Alberta.

Victims of human trafficking come from diverse backgrounds and age groups. An estimated 24% of trafficking victims are minors, with homeless youth being particularly vulnerable.

However, certain demographics are more vulnerable to human trafficking; for example, Indigenous people make up over 50% of trafficking victims in Canada. Immigrants and newcomers to Canada are also most likely to become victims of human trafficking.

The Government of Alberta is implementing the 9-point

Action Plan to Combat Human Trafficking to protect at-risk individuals from being trafficked in Alberta. They are also empowering survivors of trafficking and providing new ways to deal with traffickers. The Protecting Survivors of Human Trafficking Act was enacted on May 12, 2020. This act includes new measures to help address human trafficking and protect survivors.

The Human Trafficking Task Force was also created to find ways to protect and empower survivors of human trafficking. There are human trafficking units assembled across Alberta, including within the RCMP and through ALERT.

Community organizations and front-line services are also active in preventing the trafficking of persons and supporting those who have escaped.

There are efforts at all levels in Alberta to prevent human trafficking and to support victims. By understanding human trafficking in Alberta, we, too, can help prevent this awful crime.

Resources for Victims of Human Trafficking

If you or someone you know is the victim of human trafficking, help is available. There are resources for those who are looking to escape trafficking and those who are experiencing long-term physical and psychological impacts.

www.acws.ca/get-help/

Human trafficking is a growing issue in Alberta, where reported cases have increased significantly over the past decade. Understanding human trafficking, such as sex trafficking and labour trafficking, is crucial for recognizing signs and preventing victimization.

By educating the public and those in positions of authority, our communities can contribute to the fight against human trafficking. Recognizing grooming tactics, understanding recruitment methods, and being aware of vulnerable demographics are essential steps in this collective effort. In addition, the availability of resources for victims underscores the importance of support for those looking to escape trafficking and cope with its long-term effects.

Preventing trafficking is a collective action. Let's work together to prevent crime and protect our vulnerable neighbours.
