

THE BRETON BOOSTER

This being our first edition of the Booster we thought it fitting to pay tribute to Laurie Gellert, the reason the paper is now under new management. A kind soul who was taken away too soon. I couldn't have said it better so I am just going to start with some quotes from Laurie's memorial card.

"Laurie was a devoted and loving wife to Randy. Their dogs Diesel, Bear and Meadow were their furry family and they loved them intensely. The "kids" were a huge part of Laurie and Randy's lives and made their family complete.

She was fiercely proud of the papers she and Randy produced as owners of Community 39 Enterprises. She reached out to the communities and they responded by loving her papers and loving her. She charmed her clients with her easy-going attitude and her quick wit, then amazed them with her design talents.

She loved making miniature dollhouse furnishings, golfing, Ozzy Osbourne's music and gathering many precious friends as she lived her life to the fullest. Laurie was a hippie wanna-be, loving the music, styles and attitudes of the peace/love generation.

Family and friends meant everything to Laurie. She lit up any room she entered, and dark days and our lives with her "larger than life" exuberant personality and zest for life. You couldn't stay down when Laurie was around. Always a kind word, a helping hand and compassion as she went through days, always smiling, giving and caring: that was our Laurie"

We are so grateful to have known Laurie and Randy and to be given the opportunity to continue with these 3 "Little papers..Big Results". I remember when Laurie was the recreation coordinator for the Thorsby Recreation Complex more than 15 years ago. She put on so many amazing events bringing the community together. My favorite was Halloween. She, with the help of her colleagues and friends, would put on the most amazing Halloween haunted houses. It was the highlight of the year. Laurie touched many lives in our community and wherever she went over her 54 years.

We are honored to continue her legacy. After her sudden passing, Laurie left a hole in so many hearts. I also want to say thank you to Randy Gellert for trusting us and being so wonderful during this difficult time.

In honor of Laurie, we have now dedicated the "smile" page to her. It will now be "Laurie's Laughs". The peace symbol and dog print in the heading are similar to 2 of her tattoos. I hope you enjoy it and it puts a smile on your face just like she did to so many.

*Thank you from Shawna & Shane Ofstie

Greeting from Breton Elks Lodge
#402

Well good day everyone. Hope everyone was able to take advantage of some great outdoor activities this past summer.

We need to begin with our Sincere Condolences to Laurie Gellert Family in the sudden passing of Laurie. I never had the opportunity to meet this fine lady in person, but have good reason to believe she was a great lady.

Moving forward we want to wish Shawna and Shane Ofstie all the best in their effort to carry the future of our local papers forward. We look forward to our continuing business experience.

The Breton Elks Lodge held another Zoom session September 9 due again to our beloved COVID situation. Business discussion began with a request from Breton Long Term Care for a donation of funds for the purchase of a lift system to assist staff in the lifting and care for patients. Donations that were approved. Elks Fund for Children, I Star, Elks Foundation and the Breton Library were on the receiving side for the total of $5,500.00

This past summer a book exchange program was launched at Breton RV Park. Anyone with books that have been read and are now taking up valuable space are invited to consider donating to this exciting project. By all reports the RV Park was very busy throughout the entire camping season including our newly renovated sites. Many improvements have been completed, but there are still more to come.

In closing we want to wish everyone much Happiness and Good Health for the coming Autumn Season. Stay safe and get your shot if you haven't already and remember Crown Royal doesn't count.

Will chat again.

Allan

Village of Breton Council Candidate

My name is Shyanne Sheaves

I have resided in Breton for 18 years. After graduating from Breton High School in 2000 I moved away for a few years and attended college. I have been employed at Breton IDA for the past 7 years.

Now along with my husband, Lorne Sheaves, we are raising our two daughters in this village. They both attend school here, belong to local sports organizations and participate in village activities.

After being on the Breton Elementary School Council for the past 10 years I want to continue to help our village be a place for families to raise kids. I believe I can make a positive impact within our village. I want our girls to be proud of where they are raised. I believe in strong families, and a strong community foundation for my family and for all Breton and area residents.

Preacher’s Point

from Pastor Jeff Gooderham

A few years ago, a couple of adventurers tried to become the first to circle the globe in a hot air balloon. They took off from St. Louis, Missouri, rose to 24,000 feet, and started eastward across the Atlantic Ocean toward Africa. The prevailing winds carried the balloonists on a direct course for Libya, which was a big problem. Libya, at the time, was ruled by a dictator who hates Americans and doesn't want American balloons flying over his country. There was a pretty good chance that the balloon would be shot down if it crossed Libyan air space.

This brings up another big problem. Hot air balloons aren't easy to turn. In fact, they can't be turned at all. They're at the mercy of the wind. But they can find different winds. This is done by changing altitude. At a higher or lower altitude, a balloonist can usually find a crosswind blowing in a different direction. So the quick thinking adventurers started letting hot air out of their balloon and dropped 6,000 feet. At that altitude, they found a wind that was blowing south rather than east. Once they were safely to the south of Libya and its missiles, they heated up the balloon, rose almost 10,000 feet, and caught another wind that was blowing eastward toward their destination. What is your destination? In Proverbs chapter 14 verse 12 the Bible says; “There is a way which seems right to a man, But its end is the way of death.” Knowing our destination is very important. Jesus said “I am the way, the truth, and the life!” We can choose to change directions from one of death to one of life! God says; “Choose life!!”

MP Soroka Expresses His Grief Over the Tragic Loss of Mchale Busch and Noah McConnell

As the Member of Parliament for Yellowhead, I am completely heartbroken over the heinous crimes that took place in our community of Hinton. I would like to extend my sincere condolences to the family and friends of Mchale Busch and Noah McConnell.

Knowing that a convicted sex offender had the freedom to commit two counts of second-degree murder and take two innocent lives is a complete failure of our justice system. This tragedy has highlighted the need for stricter laws surrounding the parole of sex offenders.

Cody Lee McConnell (spouse/father), started a petition on Change.org that will call on the government to:

Amend the Criminal Code of Canada sentencing provisions for repeat sexual offenders by requiring mandatory minimum sentences for offenders with multiple sexual assault convictions who are designated to be at high risk to reoffend and lifelong parole.

Further, require registered offenders to update their personal information, including address and contact information every month or face jail time.

I strongly support this petition and encourage everyone to take the time to sign it. These are reasonable amendments to the Criminal Code, and I promise to take these much-needed changes to Parliament.

I will be consulting with the Parliamentary Law Clerk and our Conservative Shadow Ministers for Justice and Public Safety and with their support I plan on introducing a Private Member's Bill entitled 'Noah's Law'. I will work towards all party support so that the law is changed once and for all.

Until then, I hope the family and friends of Mchale, and Noah can take solace as our community rallies around them offering our comfort and support in this agonizing times.

Candidate Hopes to Bring Wealth of Experience to Reeve's Chair

By Amissa Jablonski

Candidate Don Mosicki is ready to use his extensive experience and interest in municipal government should the residents of Brazeau County elect him Reeve on October 18.

Mr. Mosicki has always had an interest in municipal politics. He feels that he could make a positive contribution to the County because of his extensive experience with this type of work. Previously, he served two terms as a councillor for Leduc County and one term as a Village of Warburg councillor. Additionally, Mr. Mosicki was involved with governance in industry, having served two terms as a Board Director for the Alberta Cattle Commission and another term when the Commission became the Alberta Beef Producers. These opportunities have given the candidate a strong understanding of what it takes to be a productive contributor to a governing body.

Should the citizens of Brazeau County elect him Reeve, Mr. Mosicki would be committed to strong communication with them. He believes that elected representatives need to really listen to their constituents ideas and concerns and not simply hear what they are saying. His approach to elected office does not involve coming with a personal agenda as he understands that the electorate are his bosses and not the other way around.

When reflecting on the challenges currently facing Brazeau County, Mr. Mosicki feels that there is a need to elevate the transparency around its budget. The County is facing financial challenges and it needs to be able to deliver services efficiently to make the best use of taxpayer dollars, especially in light of the downloading of costs by the provincial government. There is a lot of potential for the County in its agricultural, forestry, and oil sectors and Mr. Mosicki feels that, when leveraged appropriately, they can help the County cruise along to prosperity.

Realizing how important relationships with neighbouring municipalities are to the role of Reeve, he knows that representatives need to be honest with each other as a basic starting point. Agreements can work well so long as each municipality pays its fair share and cost-sharing is an effective tool for managing budgets, where appropriate. Mr. Mosicki feels that having to go to arbitration to negotiate agreements defeats the purpose of attempting to cost share in the first place as any savings realized go to pay arbitrators instead of back into the County. Additionally, arbitration can create hard feelings between municipalities, which can make future negotiations and collaboration more difficult.

Mr. Mosicki wants electors to know he is not afraid to make decisions. He believes that even no decision, in and of itself, is still inherently a decision and would not take such an approach to the Reeve's office. Up for any challenge, he likes to solve problems and is a student of holistic management, an approach championed by Stan Parsons, which is a way of looking at the whole system to better raise cattle. Mr. Mosicki would apply what he has learned from this approach to the work of Reeve. He knows that some decisions may not be perfect for everyone but are necessary for the overall success of the County and that, while County Council must listen to a wide range of perspectives from residents, ultimately, the health of the municipality is paramount.

Voters who would like to speak with Mr. Mosicki about his campaign can reach out to him at 780.696.6533. Keeping the lighter side of things in mind, he also indicated he favourite breakfast is two fried eggs, over easy, a slice of multigrain toast, and crispy hash browns, with specific emphasis on the 'crispy.'

The Breton Brothers Adventures in Alberta Chapter 3

From Allan Goddard

I left off the second installment about the Breton's after their return from serving in WW1. Basil Breton moved to Vancouver Island to manage a hotel. Douglas, Laurence and Billie Breton joined forces in operating the Telfordville store, post office and cream station. Billie and Laurence ran the store, with Laurence being the chief cream tester. Billie would continue to operate the store for the next 20 years. Douglas looked after the post office, bookkeeping and hauling freight from Leduc. Also, Douglas was becoming involved in local politics, lobbying for the extension of the railroad through the area. In 1922, the Alberta Government announced the Lacombe & North Western Railway would be extended from Rimbey to Hoadley. Lobbying continued through the UFA Local 1053, with Douglas acting as spokesperson: meetings were held, petitions circulated and delegations to Provincial ministers arranged, but with little success from 1922-1924. A break came in February 1925 when it was announced the railway would be extended 22 miles north from Hoadley, establishing a new rail terminal, and a yet to be named hamlet. It would be December 1926 before the line was put into service. The new hamlet was named "Breton" in appreciation of the work carried out by Douglas Breton. In June 1926, Douglas Breton was elected as MLA for the Leduc constituency. While the extension of the railway to Breton was gratifying to Douglas, there was still work to be done to link the railway to Leduc. Douglas could now press for the extension of the railway from within the government. Once the location of the new terminal and hamlet was determined, businesses started to establish. One of the first was the Laurence Breton family, who moved from Telfordville in April 1926 to open a grocery store. For the next ten years Laurence would operate the Red and White grocery store. The Depression of the 1930's took a toll on many businesses, and in 1936 Laurence sold the grocery store. Laurence and family would leave Breton moving to Campbell River, BC, where he was employed in a department store. Laurence passed away in 1965 at the age of 80.

In 1927 Douglas again tried to get the railway extended without success. It is interesting to note that the UFA Government of Alberta was in serious financial trouble at the time ... sound a little bit familiar. However, in 1928 the government announced they had accepted the offer from the CPR to purchase the Lacombe & North Western, and by 1932 the railway reached Leduc.

Douglas would run for re-election in 1930, but lost his seat to Liberal Arthur Mitchell. He returned to Telfordville to farm, and as secretary - treasurer for the MD of Pioneer. In 1934 the decision was made to return to England, where he took up farming again. During WWII Douglas served as a training officer with the Royal Air Force and after the war worked for Army Records, as well as farming. Douglas Breton passed away in 1953 at the age 70. His daughter wrote of his death ... "He died in 1953 with so much of his heart and dreams still in the Canadian west". While Douglas Breton would not return to Canada his name does live on in the name of our Village.

HEATHER BARRETT FOR COUNCILLOR

Hello Village of Breton Residents, my name is Heather Barrett and I have lived in Breton my entire life. I am married to Rod (47 years) and have 2 children and 4 grandchildren. I have thought about running for council in the past but timing wasn't quite right. This time, I feel like I have the time to be able to available for what the position as a counsellor might require.

There are many ideas and thoughts, that come to mind just as a resident of the Village. I know many ideas & changes are not always as they might quite seem ,and there is often certain roadblocks that slow processes in getting things done. I am hoping ,if I am chosen, that I can provide you with being open with all residents. I want to be able to listen and take your concerns seriously. I am certainly not aware of all the issues within the Village, but I truly would love to be given the opportunity to make a positive difference. I think we have a great little Village, but I also know if we can work together its advantageous for all.

Unfortunately, due to Covid19 I have not be made aware that there will be any open house for a question and answer period but you can certainly contact me at anytime by calling 780 621 6919 and I would be happy to try and answer any questions you have. If I don't have the answer I will surely do my best to get them for you.

Some of the challenges facing Breton, are old challenges but maybe looking through a new lens that will help. I think finding balance is very important, including if elected when sitting around the council table. I know that growth in any Village/Town is very important to the tax base especially when it comes to industrial and commercial to broaden the tax base. I feel like again "balance" is the approach to attain this. Growth brings increase in assessment and than in turn revenue which in turns helps to balance out needs and wants. How we achieve this takes work/commitment/and ensuring the Village is sharing what is available here.

If elected I would like the opportunity to sit on the Recruitment and Retention Committee for Physicians have managed the Malone Medical Clinic for the last 32 years and assisted in recruiting 27 Doctors to the area. I would hope we can maintain some type of medical services to the Village of Breton and have a keen interest in this.

This will be my first time running for councillor and if I do get elected I cannot promise you I have all the answers, but I will promise you I will try and find the answers to any questions you have. Thank you for your consideration and I hope you get out to vote on October 18, 2021. Good luck to all the candidates, I think its great you have 8 candidates to chose from.

Heather Barrett

MLA REPORT

from The Office of MLA Mark Smith,
Member of the Legislative Assembly
for Drayton Valley - Devon

Society has always had to struggle with the issue of individual freedom versus societal control. Our individual actions always have consequences to the people that we live with and there is always a tension as to when society should step in and control individual choices. The truth is we want both freedom and control, but where to draw the line is often a subjective decision. Should we allow dangerous recreational pursuits like extreme sports to occur? Where do we limit the consumption of alcohol or drugs? What ideas should be allowed to propagate within society? The list could go on because all of these personal decisions will impact the wider society and it is our health care system, police system, education system, etc. that have to pick up the pieces.

The past 16 months or so has forced every Albertan to reconsider some of our answers regarding freedom and control and what kind of a society we want to live in now that we face Covid-19. Quite frankly, the discussion has often become very divisive. We find ourselves today in a situation where we have a pandemic of the unvaccinated and a health care system that is struggling to deal with the very serious consequences of that reality.

On so many other issues we have landed on the side of individual freedom of choice, often with some societal control. Take for instance the issue of extreme sports. Some people like to jump off the sides of mountains wearing nothing but what I can only describe as a squirrel suit – yet it is obvious to everyone that if anything goes wrong the person will either die or be hospitalized. Either way it is loved ones and society that have to pay for the consequences of that free choice. Yet how far do we go? Do we stop people from mountaineering, skiing, riding ATVs? Generally, we have said that we want to be able to make our own choices regarding recreation and so as a society we are prepared to pay the price for what may be seen as some pretty dangerous choices.

Many Albertans have historically believed that in a free society, individual citizens are best placed to decide if they need to be vaccinated with the result being that the Alberta Government has never mandated vaccines. Yet most of us are willing to entertain the idea that there might come a time when mandatory vaccinations, at least for some segments of society, might be necessary. The government recently repealed the law that would have allowed mandatory vaccinations. Yet that has not stopped businesses and most recently AHS from saying that a Covid 19 vaccine is a condition of employment. This has left some Albertans in a crisis of conscience. They are unwilling to give up their personal liberty and conscience to be vaccinated. They wonder where their freedom of choice has gone, and other Albertans are left wondering how the unvaccinated can justify endangering vulnerable Albertans and threatening the capacity of our health care system.

As a Conservative I believe that government needs to respect individual rights and freedoms and I tend to land on the side of individual choice rather than societal control. At the same time, I understand the need for society to sometimes intervene in my personal decisions. On this issue, I hope companies and organizations consider individual circumstances before deciding whether to mandate vaccinations for each and every employee, as some people have valid reasons for not wanting vaccines, including health, religion and conscience rights. Liberty is important and, on this issue, starts with the ability to decide what drugs you will allow to be put into your body. But that does not abrogate the individual from the responsibility that they have to the society. You need to make an informed decision. You need to consider not only the consequences of your decisions on yourself but also on the rest of society. For those who truly cannot in full conscience take a Covid 19 vaccine then we in the wider society must be prepared to accommodate and find work arounds that respect their rights and protect the society.

I would also challenge those Albertans who have not yet been vaccinated. Unless you have a conscience issue or a medical reason for not getting vaccinated, please go get vaccinated and do so quickly. Should this 4th wave or any future waves threaten our hospital system with the inability to treat Albertans and be overwhelmed by Covid 19 I will understand why those of conscience are not vaccinated but I will have a much harder time understanding why those who have no such issues, the procrastinators, are prepared to endanger their own lives, our health care system and those who are dependent upon it.

PATRICIA SIMPSON
COUNCILOR

Election time for the village of Breton this fall in October. I would like to make the citizens of Breton aware that I will be seeking re-election for council. I have just finished a two year term, I have learned a lot about municipal governing and have enjoyed my position.

During my first term on council, there were a lot of changes. The loss of our Chief Administrative Officer and the hiring of a replacement. The huge project of the construction of a new hall met with many ups and downs but we were able to keep on budget and not increase any taxes.

I look forward to another term of keeping our village going forward, keeping taxes reasonable. I am committed to getting our community hall operating. I am free to talk about any concerns citizens of Breton have at any time. Please remember council meeting are always open to the public.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

Recently, two articles were published by two County councillors (Wheale, Guyon), the result of which presents an interesting dichotomy.

On the one hand, Mr. Guyon states "... we have a strong financial foundation." On the other, Ms. Wheale states that "... newly elected councillors will need to take a very careful look ... to ensure that reserve savings are not being used to prop up day-to-day operational cost..."

Given that the county has reduced their "reserve" funds from $20 million to about $5 million in 4 years may suggest to you who is the more believable.

In terms of transparency as stated by Mr. Guyon, one might keep in mind how the "pool" funding ($5 million) came to be approved--no plebiscite and no official public input. My recollection is that there was no "pro forma" provided; that is, what is it going to cost us to run the facility, who is going to run it, and where is the money coming from. Since we are currently in litigation with the Town over transfer payments, the pool operations could be a problem.

Consider also the "Fiscal Energy" proposal in front of staff and/or council for 18 months (as stated by Fiscal representatives). Why did the public not find out about this until 3 weeks ago--transparency?

Provincial Referendum Vote - Equalization

By Amissa Jablonski

Referendum Question - Should section 36(2) of the Constitution Act, 1982 - Parliament and the government of Canada's commitment to the principle of making equalization payments - be removed from the constitution?

What is Equalization?

Equalization is a program, first introduced in 1957 and later enshrined in legislation by the Constitution Act, 1982, that aims to ensure all Canadians receive relatively the same level of services for approximately the same level of taxation, regardless of where in the country they live. The legislation recognizes that various areas of the country have different resources and economic potential and seeks to accommodate those differences by the redistribution of tax dollars, based on need.

How does it work?

When Canadians pay their taxes each year, a portion of those monies go into a federal equalization pool. This pool is then divided up amongst all provinces (territories are not part of the program) based upon need. The goal is to raise the fiscal capacity of provinces that lie below the national average so they are able to offer a more equitable level of public services. These funds are also provided to the provinces in an unrestricted manner so can be used however premiers and their governments see fit.

The federal government uses a complex formula to determine how much each province gets in what are sometimes called 'transfer payments.' It takes into account a number of factors including personal income taxes, business income taxes, consumption taxes, property taxes and natural resource revenues and are calculated on a per capita basis. Natural resource revenues are only partially considered, however, so as not to unduly punish provinces with large amounts of income from this source (before 2004, this was not the case).

The equalization formula is amended by the federal government in consultation with the premiers. The current formula was negotiated in 2007 by then Prime Minister Stephen Harper and his cabinet (which included Premier Jason Kenney), and the premiers and their cabinets, with a small change coming in 2009 to limit the total amount a province could receive. In 2018, Prime Minister Justin Trudeau and his cabinet proposed the extension of the current formula, to which the premiers largely agreed, save for Alberta and Saskatchewan who felt not enough consultation had taken place.

Equalization creates the concept of 'have' and 'have not' provinces. A 'have' province is a province whose taxpayers contribute more to the program than the province receives from the federal government or is a net contributor. A 'have not' province has its taxpayers contribute less to equalization than is paid by the feds to the provincial government, making it a net receiver. Under no circumstances does a 'have' province cut a cheque and send it to a 'have not' province - all transfer payments come from the federal government and every province receives some money.

Who has the power to make change suggested in the referendum questions?

While the principle of equalization is enshrined in the constitution, the specifics of how the program works is flexible, allowing it to evolve with the nation. The referendum question, however, does not ask about changing the formula, rather, it asks about amending the constitution. To do this, an amendment must have the agreement of the House of Commons, the Senate, and a minimum number of provincial legislatures, which means at least seven provinces representing at least 50% of Canada's population, referred to as the 7+50 rule.

Why are we having this referendum?

Premier Jason Kenney, as indicated above, feels that the current system is unfair to Alberta as a 'have' province. He is seeking the negotiating leverage that a 'yes' result might confer. However, given the challenging constitutional amending formula, it is unclear whether it would make any difference on actually removing section 32(2) from the constitution.

“Loyalty to country always. Loyalty to government, when it deserves it.”

To the Brazeau County Voters:

The following objectives are what the public expects of councillors.

Over the years, this writer has noticed a serious lack of defined "objectives" for local councillors. Due to a probable lack of "open houses" to hear/meet candidates this year, the following is proposed for voters to contact their candidates to find out where they stand.

My list of councillor qualifications, expectations, job description (no particular order) is as follows:

1. Have ability to willingly read and write at least at grade 12 level as there are often over 100 pages of agenda as well as reports to be written concerning out-of-province conferences (which should be submitted for all conferences);
2. Return/don't receive $1400 if commitments are not met; i.e., timely filing of reports from conventions or conferences;
3. Understand and apply the concept of the "greatest good for the greatest number";
4. Willing to evaluate policy (see #1);
5. Take and successfully complete post-secondary courses (when and where offered) related to local government (at own expense) and lobby the RMA to promote the same;
6. Lobby the Province to enact and enforce a code of ethics for councillors and lobby the RMA to do the same (perhaps based on Victoria, BC code);
7. Lobby the Province to conduct random unannounced corporate reviews with the results made public and lobby the RMA to do the same;
8. Internalize democratic values and act accordingly; see #3 and 4 above, including transparency; and use plebiscites for big ticket items;
9. Follow policy or change it based on democratic values for the common good;
10. Read the MGA.
