Marjan John Filipic

Born May 3, 1950 at Vhrnika, Slovenia

Died July 6, 2024 at Leduc, Alberta

Marjan John Filipic passed away at his home in the early hours of July 6th after a long battle with COPD. Marjan is survived by his wife Diane, his son Neil, daughter-in-law Cheryl, grandsons Kayden and Gavin, his son Darko, daughter-in-law Terra, granddaughters Sasha and Mateya, and his son Fraser, granddaughter Saylor and grandson Darko. He is also survived by his older brother Darko.

Marjan will be fondly remembered for his kind temperament, sense of humor, dedication to his family and friends, and involvement in his community.

Marjan moved to Canada with his family from the former Yugoslavia at the age of 9, settling in Kamloops, BC. In his youth Marjan was a gifted student both academically and athletically. Rather than pursue the academic route after school Marjan started his career as a power lineman for CN Telegraph working throughout Western Canada.

Marjan met his wife Diane in January 1974, and they married on November 10, 1975. They settled down in Thorsby, Alberta where they raised their three sons. Marjan worked for TransAlta Utilities and then WesTower Communications during his time in Thorsby. Marjan was always very active in the community as a coach for his wife and sons' hockey and softball teams.

Marjan loved the outdoors and spent a lot of time camping, fishing and canoeing on the North Saskatchewan River with his friends, sons and grandchildren, where many of the fondest memories were made. Marjan dedicated all his time and energy to providing a good life for his family, full of experiences and opportunities that he never had growing up.

Marjan was loved by all who knew him, and he will be sorely missed.

May he Rest in Peace.

HATT, ELEANOR

November 1, 1926 - June 30, 2024

Eleanor passed away peacefully at the Bashaw Meadows Senior Lodge in Bashaw, Alberta at the age of 97. She was predeceased by her parents John and Victoria Stec, husband Ernie, son Allen, daughter-in-law Roberta, as well as five brothers and three sisters.

She will lovingly be remembered by sons Ron (Edna) and Willie as well as daughter Brenda (Bill). Five grand-daughters; Joanne, Diane, Tara, Tanya, and Teneil. Three grand-sons Justin, Braden and Tyler. Ten great grand-daughters; Michelle, Nicole, Randi, Raye, Anna, Bobbi, Breelyn, Easton, Sutton and Macy. Five great grand-sons; Braxton, Benson, Langston, Haden and Jase. Two great great grand-sons; Wyatt and Logan as well as numerous nieces and nephews.

Eleanor immigrated to Canada with her parents in 1927 where they took out a homestead on a quarter section of land 6 miles Northwest of Alsike, Alberta. When she went to school it was a bit challenging because she didn't speak any English, but she caught on quickly. After leaving school she went to work at a lumber camp as a cooks helper and as a cook. As time went by she met her husband-to-be Ernie who homesteaded in the next quarter to the South. They raised three sons, Ron, Willie and Allen. After Ernie passed she remained on the farm until it was time to look for seniors residence. She spent time in a few seniors' lodges until she moved to Bashaw Meadows Lodge where she spent 10 years until she passed with family members by her side. Eleanor was the second oldest of nine children, and was the last one to pass.

There will be no services as per Eleanor's wishes.

DO YOU REMEMBER WHEN?

On July 11, 1979, the Thorsby Homecoming Committee compiled a newspaper in honor of Thorsby's 50th Anniversary celebration July 13 - 15, 1979. Over the next few months, we will share with you some of the stories, picture, ads and information.

Here is the first story (3 pages) and on each page is a picture or ad from this memorable time in history.

"Do you remember when?"

written by Walter Maryka

About 1932, age eight, I got my first and only bicycle. Or should I say parts of a bicycle. There was a frame 28 inches and two wheels alright, but no seat or tires. The wheels had wooden rims which twisted and bent so bad that they would not turn between the forks. I think I bugged my dad that year and part of the next before it was fixed. My dad made me a wooden seat covered with an old sweat pad. I was still too small so I learned to ride that bicycle with my foot through the bar. It makes me wonder now, how many miles I did put on that bicycle in all the years that I had it. I rode it to school when the roads were dry. To Wizard Lake to fish for jack fish. To Thorsby once in a while. To Buford many many times. I'd even herd cows with it.

The depression came and the drought years were just settling in. The drought is more familiar to me. The crops were poor. So short that the binder could hardly cut the heads off. It was practically impossible to stook because there wasn't enough straw to make a bundle. We kids had to go behind the stookers and rake up all the heads of grain. The grain was all of poor quality and only 10 to 15 bushels to the acre. The wells all over the whole country went dry, and many farmers dug many a well that didn't produce even a cup of water. I think we ended up with about five wells. The cattle were so thin we had to pasture them on the road allowance every day during the summer. All the old straw piles were used up for feed during the winter. Money was scarce, so a lot of farmers did road work to try to pay off some of their taxes. The depression fruits were wild saskatoons, raspberries, strawberries and if you were lucky you would get some blueberries. We used to pick buckets of saskatoon berries along the road allowance where they were made into fruit preserves and jams. Dried apples were used for apple pies at threshing time, and it turned out to be a wonderful Christmas if you got a Japanese orange.

But there were other things during this time that sort of put a little cheer into living. We got our first radio during the depression. It was an RCA Victor, five tube that had to have two 'B' batteries and an 'A' battery, a long antenna and a ground wire. That was really something, and I believe that the batteries only lasted a month. Mother had her soap programs, the Procter and Gamble hour. There was the Lux Radio Theatre, the hockey games, and all the kids programs like the Green Hornet, Dick Tracy, the Shadow, and some cartoons. Things were so bad at times that we would switch the radio off for the commercials just so the batteries would last longer.

We also got our first car around this time. It was, as you could guess, a Model 'T' Ford. A 1924 model, black with a canvas top, 4.50 x 21 inch wheel with a split rim. No water pump, but it did have a sort of automatic shift, just high and low. Now with this car we were treated to far more outings and with any luck we got to go to Pigeon Lake during the summer. But the fun was trying to get it started during the cold winter days. Everything was so stiff when you cranked it, it would follow you around the yard. You used to have to jack up the rear wheel so it would stay put. We had one other strange car later on, a Columbus, which was a six with 23 inch wheels. It also had a canvas top and I believe that you may still find some parts of it around the farm.

Now with the Maryka family unit there were the parents, John and Julia, five children: Walter, Alice, Natalie, Leon and Peter. All were born and raised on the farm, where as usual there were always farm chores to do. Some got the easy jobs, like the girls who looked after most of the housework, however, everyone at one time or the other pitched in on the chores. Someone got the cows, then milked them, fed the pigs, fed the chickens and picked the eggs, brought in the wood and coal, filled the reservoir on the stove with water, made sure the slop pail was empty. Oh! yes the milk had to go through the separator and then there were the calves to be fed the skim milk. The cattle, fed. The barns cleaned. These were everyday affairs, seven days a week. A lot of, these were done before and after school.

Do you remember when? written by Walter Maryka

Church picnics and bazaars were very popular for entertainment because that was where you could meet with the rest of the people in the neighborhood and visit. These were always well attended. Young and old, rich or poor would usually show up. During the depression, I remember running every race to try and win a thin dime for ice cream. It's funny how much faster you can run if you haven't got two nickels to rub together. A nickel would buy you a cone or a pop or a bar or a hot dog or a bag of that old hard candy, and if you spent more than 25 cents you were a spendthrift.

Now we must not forget the Ukrainian Christmas which is also a three-day affair in the first week of January. This follows the old tradition and the old Julian calendar which is two weeks behind our present day calendar. About this time of the year on the farm in Alberta you could expect some real cold weather.

On the first day you fast after breakfast. You spend the rest of the day preparing for the celebration of Christmas. You get all the work done before the Evening Star appeared because then all work stops. From then on all you do is what is absolutely necessary, you do not plan any major projects as this is the time you are to celebrate the return of Christ. The women have prepared all the good things to eat and seen to the decorating of the house.

In our custom we did not have a Christmas tree. Instead, we used to prepare something which would resemble the manger where Christ was born. We would spread hay on the floor in one corner of the house or under the table if there was room. Then there would be put a sheaf of grain, a small variety of fruits and nuts and maybe some of the prepared food. Our gifts were usually scattered in with this. I dare say that when we were allowed to get the goodies and our gifts from this pile, there was hay and straw spread a long way from where it was originally.

The table was set with most of the favorite food. There was usually every type of food that was available in those days. Fish, hams, spiced meats, vegetables, all sorts of baking and preserves were set out and you were to eat a little bit of every food. Before we ate, a prayer was said and we sang one or two carols. After the meal, the dishes were stacked up and were left that way to be washed the next day. The food was left on the table, and a clean place setting, in case a stranger came to the door.

On the second day the visiting began, mostly between relatives. In those days the families were larger than they are now, and these gatherings would be like our present day socials. But the big thing in those days and in the country was the weather, which was pretty cold. To get from here to there was done with horses and sleighs and most of the time you would have to go four or five miles. That would take you about an hour and a half. So if it was about 10 below zero, there were some cold people. But all of this was forgotten, because it was "Christmas" and it was a lot of fun for young and old alike. Also on this day, in the evening, the caroling would start. There would be groups of carolers go from house to house to sing. They would arrive and start to sing a carol on the way to the front door. The head of the house would invite them in, greet them and thank them for being so kind as to pick his house to sing and ask them to sing another one or two carols. After that the group would be treated to food and drinks and if he was a very good host, then he would get another carol sung. By the end of the evening some of these carolers would be quite "tipsy" and some of their singing would be a bit off key.

On the third day of Christmas things would sort of slow down and the visiting was generally catching up on the neighborhood friends. These were mostly short stays. A drink or two, something to eat, a bit of talk and you were on your way. All in all things went very well most of this day because of the turn over of so many people. But you would see people that you hadn't seen all year come to wish you a Merry Christmas. In those days, people meant a lot to each other.

Now another day to remember was 'Halloween, say in the 1930's, the weather was usually cool or cold and many times with snow on the ground. The only one you could holler "trick or treat" to was the storekeeper. Here you would get some of that rock hard candy. But the rest of the night was strictly tricks. There wasn't anything that couldn't be moved! Binders would be pushed into the bush. Wagons would be taken apart and carried piece by piece up into someone's hayloft and re-assembled there. Every "outhouse" that wasn't on concrete was upset. Some were just moved back beyond the hole which was a very dirty trick. Cows were harnessed and left like that to be found at milking time in the morning. Doors were tied and gates left open. Mail boxes were put at different people's places. Fire crackers were very rare in those days. My dad would leave his lighted lantern in the middle of the yard all night and the guys thought that he might be up watching to catch anybody that would come around. That worked good for quite a number of years but someone caught on, so someone took the lantern and had a real good time carrying on with their tricks. That was one mad father the next day, mostly because he had to buy himself another lantern. There were times when someone would let drive with a rifle or a shotgun, mostly into the air or into some of the large stands of bush that were still around in those days. Now if you were around one of these shots in the cold winter night, and you thought that it was meant for you, it sure put a scare into you. That is one of the loudest things that I have ever heard in my life. And the speed that you had to cover the next couple of miles was unheard of. That place you would remember the next year for sure!

Alberta winters back in the 1930's should not be forgotten! It isn't that they are not cold now, but in those days with the type of materials used for houses, heating and the kind of clothing that we wore, made them quite cold. None of the houses were insulated. They were of frame construction with wallpaper on the inside walls to make them look pretty. There were no storm windows so when the cold really set in the single window pain frosted right up to the top with the prettiest designs you could ever hope to see. It was fun to get your nose or your tongue on the frost and make a few designs yourself. When it got this cold the frost would come right through the walls and every nail-head would have frost on it even with two or three layers of wallpaper over the nails. At night the fire would be baked and the temperature in the house would drop below freezing. The old water bucket would have a crust of ice on the water in the morning. In bed you were not too bad off, but the cold would sneak up from the bottom. Those old mattresses, after they had been slept on for a number of years, would be only about an inch thick so you made sure that you would turn quite often. You'd pile on every quilt and blanket and maybe some topcoats, the weight would be so heavy you could hardly turn over in bed. The only thing that saved some of the smaller kids was that there were always two or three that slept together so that you had a bit of help when you had to turn. If you were lucky enough to have a feather tick, then you had it beat. But I can remember going to bed with my socks on many a times. The only time you took your long underwear off was on the weekend when you bathed and changed to a clean pair. For the outside, you made sure you bundled up properly or it would mean frostbite. You would put on two pairs of pants, two or three pairs of heavy wool socks inside your felt boots, two pairs of woolen mitts inside your leather ones, about two sweaters under your heavy makinaw coat. A heavy fur cap went on your head with a scarf wound around your neck right up to your eyes. And to this day. I think that the only thing that kept me warm was the weight of the clothes that were on my back. This was the way we walked to school many times in about 20 or 30 below zero. Everything would be okay until mother nature called! Things would get pretty cold then. Remember in those days, we never had any zippers and with your fingers cold and numb, you just couldn't do up those darn buttons.

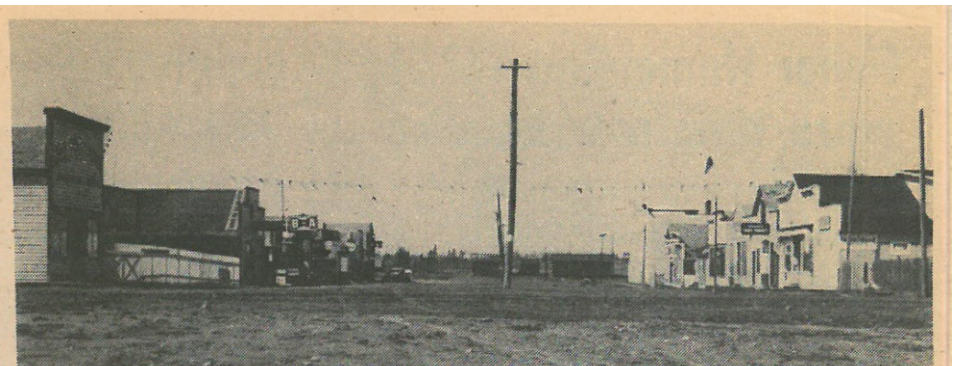

The roads in those days were usually bushed in on both sides so that when the winds would start blowing they would drift snow up to 10 feet high. The drifts would be hard enough to walk on. The farmers would take down some of their fences and go on the fields instead of the roads. They would stay that way until spring came along and melted the drifts. The only snow plows used in those days were for the main highways. I think the coldest part I remember was going to the out-house in the middle of the night, when you just had to go! You'd delay as long as was possible hoping that you might not have to, but when the time actually came, you were in one heck of a hurry! You'd grab whatever coat was handy, the warmest boots that you saw and take off. Your stay was never too long, you did what you had to, and got back inside in a hurry. But the next day when you would look at the length of the stride you took in the snow, you would know exactly how big of a hurry you were in. You could never match that stride any other time.

Those "two-holers" were sure hard to find at night. There weren't any yard lights in those days. And those out-houses were not the prettiest looking buildings, so they were usually hidden back in the bush, at least a hundred yards from the house. So, when in the dead of night you had to find your way and you didn't take dead aim, you could get lost and waste precious time. Or there could be some stupid animal wondering around grazing, or worse still, something like a cow would be lying down right on your path to the little house. These were usually very ungainly situations with some very profane comments. And then there was the old dog that would spot you when you were in a dead run and think that maybe it was time for him to have a little romp with you. Did you ever try and dodge around a black dog when it's pitch black outside? Or, if you did sneak past him on the way out then he'd catch you on the way back for sure! He'd bark just about the time when you were right beside him and scare the liver out of you or growl and maybe not let you back in the house for awhile.

But on a starry night, with the door open, had yourself the grandest view you'd ever wish to see. And in the spring of the year, you would be treated to a chorus of frogs that were in every pond for miles around. Or you would get two owls hooting back and forth to each other. If you had a enough hoot, you might even get an answer back. So with the privacy you had in that "little house", all you really needed was a bit more heat, then you could have stayed and really enjoyed yourself.

This is what I remember when!

Thorsby's main street, mid 30's looking north.

Wednesday & Thursday 12pm - 6pm, Friday 10am - 5pm

Summer is here! Lots of fun things to do at the library and around the area. Our Summer Reading Club has started and there is a program at the library every Wednesday morning at 10 am. Contact the library for more information and to register.

Our "English Conversation and More" group meets every Wednesday evening at the library to learn and practice English and to learn about community and culture. At present we have 6 participants, all relatively newcomers to our area from the Ukraine. Last Wed. Mr. Andrew Boitchenko, MLA for Drayton Valley-Devon, visited our class and shared some of his experiences about when he first came to Canada as a teenager, from the Ukraine. Everyone enjoyed sharing their experiences and stories. We were all appreciative of Mr. Boitchenko taking the time to come to Thorsby to meet with us and thank him for his interest and support. Also a big thanks to Meg who volunteers weekly to help with this group.

Thorsby Library is working to diversify our collection and recently purchased a few books in other world languages. We now have a couple of picture vocabulary books and also children story books in Spanish and Ukrainian as well as introductory books in Tagalog, Mandarin, French, Cree and Arabic. These books are available for anyone to borrow and will be a start to a collection of books in other languages. These may be of particular interest to families who want to introduce or maintain a second language with their children.

Enjoy the summer and Happy Reading!

THE TOPS TEN Cool Summer Drinks

Watching your weight doesn't have to sentence you to a life of water and diet drinks. You can keep this summer sweet without lots of extra sugar and calories. Quench your thirst with these tasty suggestions.

1. Add orange, lemon, or even cucumber slices to sparkling water
2. Cut your usual glass of lemonade in half and add sugar free iced tea.
3. Freeze blueberries or raspberries in ice trays with water and add them to your next summer drink.
4. Chill out by mixing seedless watermelon, cranberry juice, and ice cubes in a blender. Serve with a slice of lemon.
5. Steep a peach tea bag in boiling water, chill and add an orange slice.
6. Add a splash of pineapple juice to sparkling water and garnish with pineapple wedges and fresh mint leaves.
7. Make your own iced coffee by adding a splash of skim milk and a shot of sugar-free vanilla syrup or a packet of artificial sweetener.
8. Mix one part cranberry or pomegranate juice with two parts of club soda and garnish with fresh raspberries.
9. Steep two green tea bags in boiling water. Chill and serve on ice with a tablespoon of honey and a lemon wedge.
10. Make a tasty summer mocktail. Serve low sodium tomato juice on ice and mix with a teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce and a few dashes of hot sauce (depending on how spicy you want your drink). Add a celery stalk and a couple of green olives if you like.
